Robin Roberts

Her special Katrina: 10 Years
After the Storm premieres Sunday, Aug. 23, on ABC

What was it like covering Katrina?

I was just crying like a baby. I had been driving all night long and lost contact with my family, who was there on the Gulf Coast at the time. I remember saying, "I've got to find my family," and I was able to shortly before going on-air.

Have you had time to reflect?

Anniversaries are a time of reflection for any of us. It's been 10 years of immense sorrow and joy, and like the resilient people of the Gulf Coast, you pick yourself back up and you keep moving forward as best as you can.

What have your own ups and downs taught you?

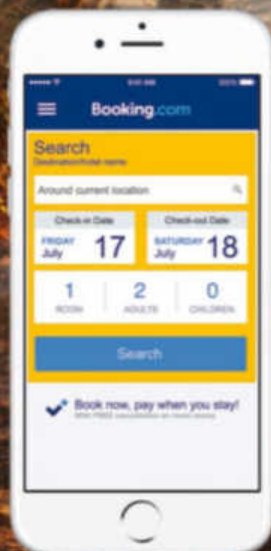

I truly believe we are all a little bit stronger than we think we are.

After their top-secret wedding, the couple (inset, in Bora Bora on Aug. 11) enjoyed a break filled with sun-soaked days on the beach.

NEARLY TWO WEEKS after beginning their happily ever after as husband and wife, Justin Theroux and Jennifer Aniston are back to (show) business as usual. But if their schedules are busy—Theroux is back on the set of HBO's The Leftovers, and Aniston is promoting her new movie She's Funny That Way—they'll always have Bora Bora. Leave it to Aniston and Theroux to have a blockbuster honeymoon. In → the South Pacific the couple was joined by a posse of pals: Jimmy Kimmel (who wed the pair) and his wife, Molly McNearney; Jason Bateman and his wife, Amanda Anka; Tobey Maguire and his wife, Jennifer Meyer, who created their wedding bands; director Will Speck; plus all the couples' children. The newlyweds and co. jetted to French Polynesia in a Gulfstream V private plane. "Jen and Justin really enjoyed their honeymoon," says a source close to the actress. "She wasn't focused on work and her life in L.A. and was able to really relax. It was everything they hoped for." The group kicked back in luxurious beachfront villas at the Four Seasons resort, where they tanned, paddleboarded, took yoga lessons and enjoyed spa treatments. On Aug. 11 Theroux and Aniston—in a purple string bikini—organized a yoga session on their private beach and kissed in the ocean afterward. "They looked very happy," says an onlooker. The pair fit right in with other newlyweds at the resort. "They had their arms wrapped around each other and were in their own world," says a guest who spotted them on a leisurely stroll. "They looked blissful."

This week Theroux, 44, headed to Austin, Texas, to continue shooting The Leftovers, while Aniston, 46, is set to promote her new movie (see sidebar below). Soon she'll be heading to Atlanta for pre-production work on Garry Marshall's ensemble movie Mother's Day. "It hasn't been easy for Jen and Justin to figure out ways to merge their lives," says a source. But when they do reunite, the duo enjoy quiet nights in at their Bel Air, Calif., home (where they wed on Aug. 5) with their three dogs, Dolly, Sophie and Clyde, and weekly dinner parties with their pals. Says a source close to the couple: "They will continue doing their own thing and see each other when they can. As long as that doesn't change and each respects the other's career, it should continue to be a wonderful relationship." —With

KHLOE KARDASHIAN TROUBLE WITH HER EX

AFTER A 'SCARY' INCIDENT WITH EX-HUSBAND LAMAR ODOM, THE REALITY STAR WANTS TO PUT HER PAST BEHIND HER—ONCE AND FOR ALL

IT'S BEEN NEARLY TWO YEARS SINCE

Khloé Kardashian split from Lamar Odom after four years of marriage, but the Keeping Up with the Kardashians star can't seem to shake her past. After Odom, 35, allegedly confronted and yelled at her outside a Beverly Hills gym on Aug. 12, the 31-year-old was "freaked out," says a source. The former couple, who signed divorce papers in July, "are not speaking," says the Kardashian source, though an Odom source denies that claim. Multiple insiders say the former basketball player is jealous of Kardashian's new relationship with NBA star James Harden, but a source close to Odom dismisses rumors that he's given in to his demons. "He's healthy and not drinking or doing drugs," says the insider. Still, "he had a hard time letting go of Khloé, but he's realizing it's over." The Kardashian source says "Khloé is just living her life. She wishes Lamar would do the same."

CATCHING UP WITH CONNIE BRITTON

THE NASHVILLE ACTRESS, 48, STARS IN THE ACTION-COMEDY AMERICAN ULTRA (IN THEATERS NOW)

"For better or for worse, you are all in it together," Britton says of the tight-knit crew of Nashville, which returns Sept. 23 on ABC.

What was it like playing a CIA operative alongside Jesse Eisenberg and Kristen Stewart in American Ultra?

It was so different from what I've done before. My character isn't really trained as an agent, but it was still a pretty arduous shoot with a lot of physical demands. Jesse is just a dream, and Kristen is so intelligent. It's a fun movie that rides the line between serious action and absurd comedy.

Nashville* ended on such a cliff hanger! What can fans expect from the fourth season?

There is obviously a lot of great music, and all the characters have moved into different areas in their lives. It will be interesting to see what happens with Deacon, whether he lives or dies, and where that leaves Rayna. I'm not saying a word, but there are a lot of new twists for everyone!

Have you gotten to know Nashville well?

Well, I have a 4-year-old son, so I'm kind of a homebody, but I love to go out and eat. Since we started the show four years ago, there are so many great restaurants, so I love a night on the town for a good dinner with my pals.

Speaking of your son Eyob, how is he doing?

He's fantastic! He's going to preschool, and we went to Africa together this summer. And he loves trains. His happy place is this train museum in L.A., and when we're in New York, we'll get on the subway every day just to ride it.

—EMILY STROHM

"It was a lot of fun," says Bailey of the shoot at the Vidanta Resort in Nuevo Vallarta, Nayarit, Mexico. "The perfect date with the perfect person."

JOE & SAMANTHA

Inside Bachelor in Paradise's People Date Night

The contestants of Bachelor in Paradise are no strangers to skimpy swimwear, but Samantha Steffen admits she needed a bit of liquid courage before her sexy People photo shoot date with Joe Bailey. "I had a couple beers," she says. "It was all in the name of fun!" And romance. "It wasn't awkward for one second," says Bailey of their steamy on-camera makeouts. "We had the kind of chemistry everyone wants on that first date." And despite the fact that Bailey, 29, is quickly gaining a villainous reputation, 28-year-old Steffen doesn't mind—for now. "Our date couldn't have gone any better," she says. "And I think we have more great ones to look forward to." —AILI NAHAS

FINN WITTRICK

The Emmy-nominated American Horror Story: Freak Show star, 30, had a pinch-me moment while acting in 2012's star-studded Death of a Salesman: "I hadn't experienced celebrity like that. I had to go to the bathroom to splash water on my face and get over it."

I AM CAIT'S CANDIS CAYNE MY TRANSITION

You exuded confidence on the ABC series Dirty Sexy Money and guide Caitlyn Jenner on I Am Cait. Have you always been comfortable in your own skin? I was very open with my transition [from male to female]. I held my head high and took the brunt for the community. I didn't mind because my parents really nurtured me and allowed me to be who I am. I've learned a lot, but I've also taught a lot of people and made [transitioning] less of a mystery.

What's it been like working with Caitlyn? It's been an amazing experience getting to know Cait and helping her along with everything she's going through. It's hard enough going through the process of transitioning alone, let alone in the public eye, so it is good to have girlfriends there who know what it is about and how to negotiate the ups and downs.

What made you partner with the LGBT social media app MOOVZ?

There are not a lot of apps where girls like me can go to feel like we are a part of the community, and I'm so glad there is an app for that.

Jimmy Carter Battles Advanced Cancer

Disease found in his liver has spread

Former President Jimmy Carter, 90, disclosed Aug. 12 in his signature, plainspoken way that a recent liver surgery had revealed "I have cancer that now is in other parts of my body." He promised more information once he begins treatment at Emory Healthcare hospital in Atlanta and knows more himself. Rosalynn, his wife of 69 years, is at his side and understandably "scared," a friend tells People. But Carter himself, who long defied his family's medical history (pancreatic cancer killed his father, brother and two sisters) to travel the world mediating peace and helping the poor, has met the diagnosis with "humor and impatience," says another friend, Gerald Rafshoon. ### The actress, 50, brings arts-focused education to underserved students

The arts were a huge part of learning back when I was going to school, and it's not the case anymore. Urban Arts Partnership brings arts-integrated curricula to 100 public schools in New York City and Los Angeles. We teach in a whole different way. For instance, we have a program called Story Studio for English-as-a-second-language students. We ask them to tell a personal story in their own language, and then we teach them how to storyboard that story, and we slowly help them translate it into English; they have ownership of the process and ownership of the words. We're trying to make the disengaged become engaged. We tell them we care and that they're capable and intelligent. They just need an outlet.

A DOZEN COOL THINGS TO SEE, HEAR, READ AND DOWNLOAD THIS WEEK

Granny takes the wheel:
Garner and Tomlin.

No. 1 Grandma

Forty years after her first (and only) Oscar nod, Lily Tomlin may finally get another shot

MOVIE

COMEDY/DRAMA If Elle Reid

(Tomlin) baked cookies, they'd be laced with pot. If she read you a bedtime story, it'd be from The Feminine Mystique. She's hardly the standard granny. But then, Elle's 18-year-old granddaughter Sage (Julia Garner) doesn't need tea and sympathy—she needs money for an abortion. Grandma is a bracing trip around

L.A. as Elle, whose savings from a career as a minor poet are nonexistent, hits up old buddies for help. Tomlin is raw as she pivots from hilarious to raging to so, so vulnerable. Elle may be a battle-ax, but she's also grieving the loss of her partner Violet and hanging on by a thread. She's the kind of woman we don't see onscreen often, so run. Try to catch up to her. (Aug. 21, R)

Frank Dillane (with Alycia Debnam-Carey) starts seeing dead people...who aren't.

No. 2 Fear the Walking Dead

So this is how we became zombieified!

TV HORROR A prequel to AMC's enormous hit, Fear is like watching home movies shot before the zombie apocalypse. A high school guidance counselor (Kim Dickens) witnesses the outbreak of a horrifying illness after her substance-abusing son (Frank Dillane) wakes up in a viscera-strewn drug den. There aren't many zombies (yet), but the genre is haunted by such deep, weird layers of meaning that the show is effortlessly creepy. (AMC, Aug. 23, 9 p.m.)

No. 3 American Ultra

MOVIE ACTION/COMEDY Audacious, funny and as violent as it is romantic, this is the Jesse Eisenberg equivalent of a Jason Bourne movie. He's Mike Howell, a stoner and grocery clerk trying to propose to girlfriend Phoebe (Kristen Stewart). When agents swoop in to take him out, Mike is baffled—he has no idea why he's so good at killing folks who want to destroy him. Eisenberg is nerd enough to sell the silly plot about a new kind of sleeper agent, while Stewart is a lively foil. Just as much fun are Connie Britton and Topher Grace as battling suits who make “federal intelligence” seem like an oxymoron. (Aug. 21, R)

Eisenberg and Stewart are caught up in a spy conspiracy that reaches high levels.

No. 4 Carly Rae Jepsen, E•MO•TION

She'll be your ear-candy crush

MUSIC POP Jepsen's voice has likely been stuck in your head since her boy-crazy breakout “Call Me Maybe” from 2012. On her terrific third album, she's still all about the feels—especially crushes, as in the frothy “I Really Like You.” Jepsen could be the second coming of Cyndi Lauper—or a younger, fourth member of Wilson Phillips—on '80s-tinged ear candy like “Gimmie Love,” a bouncy gem for anyone wanting to relive those early-on butterflies. This may be the pop album of the year.

No. 5 Blunt Talk
TV

COMEDY Patrick Stewart, whose august, bald head might be thought to contain all the planetary systems he visited as Jean-Luc Picard, also happens to be funny. Blunt, on which he plays an irreverent and unhinged cable-news host, gives him all sorts of broad nonsense. Best is a nutty scene in which he goes for the throat while interviewing a guest—himself. (Starz, Aug. 22, 9 p.m.)

Stewart consults with his therapist (Richard Lewis).

Ed Burns interrogates a prostitute (Katrina Bowden).

No. 6 Public Morals

A trip to the old Big Apple—less nice, more vice

TV CRIME Set in New York City in the 1960s, this tale of an undercover vice cop caught in an erupting gang war goes overboard on the period detail—the intensely retro colors almost knock it back into the 1940s—but Ed Burns is perfect. Handsome but dull-eyed, he could be Don Draper burned out on exposure to low life instead of high. (TNT, Aug. 25, 10 p.m.)

No. 7 Rob Thomas, The Great Unknown

MUSIC POP On his third solo LP, the Matchbox Twenty alum sticks to what he knows—and does—best. He mines the standouts from a 20-year career and finds new inspiration: “I Think We’d Feel Good Together” brings to mind the sexy swing of his Santana collaboration “Smooth,” and “Hold On Forever” has the upbeat optimism of “Streetcorner Symphony.” If you crave songs that are peppy and poppy, Thomas is your man.

Unknown is Thomas’s first album in more than six years.

No. 9 The Gift THRILLER

Granted, The Gift offers standard horror jolts, but what's truly scary is the central idea that we never grow up—just older and colder. Simon (Jason Bateman) and his wife, Robyn (Rebecca Hall), move back to Simon's hometown, only to run into his old classmate Gordo (director and writer Joel Edgerton). Awkward and shifty, Gordo tries to befriend the pair, but Simon puts him off. Let's agree that Gordo does not take rejection well. With keen timing, the film plants clues that upend the very notion of victim and villain. In the end there isn't even an identifiable hero. And that's terrifying. (In theaters, R)

No. 10 Grace Potter, Midnight

A rowdy and fun solo debut

MUSIC POP ROCK After 10 years at the helm of Grace Potter and the Nocturnals, the rocker ditches the group—and its bluesy folk—for a solo career with a pop sheen. With a powerful growl to rival Stevie Nicks or even Janis Joplin, Potter wails her way through funky, pop-rock party starters (“Delirious,” “Alive Tonight”) and moody rebel anthems (“Instigators,” “Look What We’ve Become”). This is music to rouse you into motion—you’ll celebrate the end of a lousy workweek by dancing from Friday night clear on into Saturday morning.

Midnight is her first post-Nocturnals album.

Okieriete Onaodowan, Anthony Ramos and Lin-Manuel Miranda

No. 11 Hamilton BROADWAY

MUSICAL How often do you get American history and theatrical history in one show? This hip-hop version of the life of the founding father, featuring a multicultural cast, is smart, inventive, radical and fun—the iPhone of American musicals. The show opens with creator-star Lin-Manuel Miranda summarizing Hamilton's first 20 years in a four-minute rap and dance number, and never stops surprising. Notable performers are Jonathan Groff as a clownish King George III and Daveed Diggs as founding frenemy Thomas Jefferson. (The Richard Rodgers Theatre)

The fascinating life of Henry VIII's last wife—plus a mystery in rural Quebec and a modern mom scrambling in the new economy EDITED BY KIM HUBBARD

Elisabeth Egan A Window Opens

FICTION Life's good for Alice Pearse, an appealing suburban mom who loves her part-time job. But when her husband quits working and she throws herself into a daunting new position at a hip start-up, her world starts to wobble. Forget leaning in—can poor Alice even manage to stay upright? You'll have a great time finding out.

Louise Penny The Nature of the Beast

CRIME When a boy is killed after telling a fantastic tale, Inspector Gamache comes out of retirement to find that evil once again suffuses Three Pines, the bucolic Quebec village with an alarming rap sheet. In this, the 11th title in the series, Penny sustains her high-wire act, creating characters of remarkable depth in an exhilarating whodunit.

Philippa Gregory The Taming of the Queen

FICTION Called to court, the widow Kateryn Parr receives an offer she can't refuse: Henry VIII wants her as his sixth bride. As queen, she unites the royal children into a single household. As a religious reformer, she translates the Latin Bible into English. This is a fascinating history lesson, disguised as a novel, about a wily woman who survives lethal Tudor plots and outlasts a deadly king.

It was the day Kelly Rutherford had been dreading. On Aug. 6, after a five-week visit, her children Hermes, 8, and Helena, 6, would have to fly back to their father, German businessman Daniel Giersch, in Monaco, where they have lived for the past three years amid their parents' contentious six-year custody battle. And when Rutherford noticed a sudden "shift" in their behavior at the end of their stay, she started to get worried. "They were great the entire time. We were painting, horse-back riding," Rutherford tells People. "Then right when they knew they were going to go back, they got really panicky. My daughter was crying, my son started saying, 'Mommy, I'm afraid.'"

That's when the actress, 46, says she felt compelled to act. In a desperate and controversial decision, Rutherford refused to return her children, despite a court order in Monaco requiring her to do so, leading to allegations of kid-

RUTHERFORD

'I'll Never Give Up on My Kids'

IN A TEARFUL INTERVIEW JUST DAYS AFTER LOSING HER CHILDREN, THE ACTRESS OPENS UP ABOUT HER NIGHTMARE 6-YEAR CUSTODY BATTLE—AND HER CONTROVERSIAL ATTEMPT TO KEEP THEM IN THE U.S. By MICHELE CORRISTON

napping. “If I put them on a plane, I realized I may never see them again,” she says. “I sent an e-mail to Daniel telling him where we were. I just needed a moment to figure out what to do.”

The fallout was swift. Giersch accused her of child abduction. On Aug. 11 a New York Supreme Court judge hauled Rutherford into court and ordered the children immediately returned to Monaco by their paternal grandmother, Rosita Giersch. Experts say the gamble may have cost Rutherford dearly: Though she will have the chance to state her case in Monaco on Sept. 3—she is appealing for primary physical custody and to be able to return the children to live with her in the U.S.—“Kelly’s failure to deliver the children likely bought them a one-way ticket to Monaco,” says family-law expert Michael Stutman, who has not worked on the case.

Now, as Rutherford is faced with an excruciatingly uncertain future, she says she’ll fight to bring her children home. This summer “was the first five weeks straight I’ve had with my children in six years, since Helena was born. It’s hard to describe that to someone,” she says, tearing up two days after the court ruling. “My goal is their well-being, that they’re safe, happy, healthy. It’s scary,” she says. “My kids have been through a lot. I’ve done everything I can to let them think everything is normal.”

Yet for quite some time, nothing about Rutherford’s custody case has been normal. Married in 2006, the Gossip Girl actress and the businessman, 41, were a fixture on the New York and L.A. social circuits. But in 2008 their romance abruptly came to an end when Rutherford filed for divorce while three months pregnant with their second child. “I was in love with him, and things were good in the beginning—then weird things started happening,” says Rutherford. “People are not always who they say they are.” (Giersch’s L.A. attorney Fahi Takesh Hallin said, “Daniel will not respond to Kelly’s latest round of false statements to the media.”)

The split almost instantly turned ugly. Rutherford tried to bar Giersch from leaving the U.S. with Hermes; he attempted to block her from bringing the boy from L.A. to New York City, where she had to shoot Gossip Girl. “I was in the most vulnerable place I could be,” she says. “I had a little boy who needs his mommy. I was pregnant and working.”

Rutherford refused to put Giersch’s name on Helena’s birth certificate, and the custody battle “became a war,” Rutherford says. “It was like, ‘I’m going to take you down, I’m going to take the kids.’ He wanted 50/50 custody immediately of a newborn,” she says, a request complicated by the fact that she was breast-feeding. “It’s physically challenging for a newborn to be shared 50/50. Physiologically, they need their mommy.”

By 2012 the situation had devolved, and Rutherford’s legal team reported Giersch to authorities for alleged weapons and drug activity. Though Rutherford denies she personally reported Giersch and claims her ex never proved he is banned from the country, a California judge decided Rutherford had failed to facilitate Giersch’s relationship with the children, whereas he had promoted coparenting. The judge therefore gave the exes joint custody but sent the toddlers to live with Giersch abroad in Monaco, an arrangement that was supposed to be temporary while he applied for a new visa. (The State Department says he never reapplied.)

After about 80 trips to Monaco to see her kids, Rutherford was forced to file for bankruptcy and seemed no closer to winning back her children. But in May she had a brief glimmer of hope when, after Giersch refused to let Rutherford see the kids unless she gave him their passports, a California judge awarded her temporary sole custody. That victory was short-lived, however, after Giersch objected to the order, saying Monaco should have jurisdiction, as the children now primarily reside there (even though that is due to a California judge’s decision). What resulted was a game of jurisdictional hot potato, as first California and then New York claimed not to have the jurisdictional right to rule on the children, in effect leaving the decision to be made by a court in Monaco. “It’s just incredible to me, as an American mom of American children,” says Rutherford. “I’ve gone into every court and asked for help for my U.S. citizen children, but no American court is protecting them. All I

Their Bitter Six-Year Battle

2007
In happier times the couple attended a red carpet event with their son Hermes in Fallbrook, Calif.

2015
After a judge ordered her children returned to Monaco, Rutherford called the decision “shocking, illegal and abusive. There are no words to help children understand why a judge would be so cruel.”

wanted was for someone to say, ‘Don’t worry, they’re coming back.’”

Now, with her children thousands of miles away, Rutherford will once again take her battle to Monaco, where she has a Sept. 3 hearing scheduled. Her prospects seem bleak. Following her previous refusal to send them back, “she may end up with even less than she has now,” says Robert Wallack, an attorney who used to represent the actress. “In the future she may not be allowed to have them for these extended vacations, and that would be terrible.” For Giersch’s part, his lawyers are “considering taking different measures about future visits to the U.S., how the passports are held or whether the visits need to be supervised,” his New York attorney Ira Garr says.

But no matter her chances, Rutherford says she’ll never give up hope. “I’ve had to take a situation that’s so bizarre and try to keep my kids healthy. I have to keep knowing, if I’m okay, they’re going to be okay. I don’t want them to be fearful,” she says. “My children ask me all the time if I am still fighting for them. . . . I always tell them the day will never come when I say no.” ●

One month after announcing they were expecting a second child, Rutherford filed for divorce.

2012
A judge ordered the children to live primarily with Giersch; though he maintains a residence in Monaco, they go to an elite private school in a nearby French village.

2015
Rutherford’s lawyer Wendy Murphy denies claims that Giersch wants to coparent. “Somebody who wants that doesn’t aggressively take legal steps in a foreign country to strip the children of their American citizenship.”

The Duggar Family

3 Months After Scandal

Picking Up the Pieces

AS THEY FIGHT TO MOVE FORWARD AFTER
SON JOSH'S 'MISTAKES' WERE EXPOSED, THE
FORMER REALITY STARS ARE FINDING THEIR OWN WAYS TO COPE

Jill Dillard and Jessa Seewald both had good reason to celebrate: Traveling to Knoxville, Tenn., for the wedding of their friend and fellow reality-TV star Michaela Bates—whose evangelical Christian family, like the Duggars, boasts 19 kids—the two sisters were set to enjoy the celebration alongside friends and family. New mom Jill was taking a break from her missionary work in El Salvador to make the 1,600-mile trip with her 4-month-old son Israel and husband, Derick, while mom-to-be Jessa proudly showed off her third-trimester bump. Along with their siblings and parents Jim Bob and Michelle, “they are doing very, very well,” Bates, who counted oldest Duggar sister Jana among her bridesmaids, tells People. “I’m so excited to see them all again because it’s been a couple of months.”

Those months have changed everything for the famous family. Since mid-May, when oldest son Josh apologized for his earlier “wrongdoing”—a 2006 police report revealed that he molested five underage girls as a teen, and Jill and Jessa subsequently stepped forward as two of the victims—the Tontitown, Ark.-based family have watched in disbelief as their hit TLC show 19 Kids and Counting was canceled and their lives turned upside down. “The better part of the last decade has been doing their show, and to have that removed—and instead for there to be this intense scrutiny of their every move—just isn’t something you get used to overnight,” says a source who has worked closely with them. “I think the family is still trying to absorb the fact that their life has so radically changed.” Here’s how many of them are making sense of their lives now.

AS SON'S PAST, ASHATTERED WORLD
The Duggars “expected the public to understand what Josh did and be all right with it,” says a family insider. “They are still stunned that this is how it has all gone down.”

'They're doing great. It's a complete change of pace for them'
—AMY DUGGAR

ADIOS, ARKANSAS!

"For all the hardships of being in a place like where they are, which has far fewer creature comforts, there is also a real peace," a family insider says of the Dillards (in recent Insta snaps of life in El Salvador).

Josh & Anna Duggar

HAVING RESIGNED from his post at an ultra-conservative Christian lobbying group after the scandal—"I acted inexcusably, for which I am extremely sorry," he said after the 2006 police report was made public—Josh, 27, left Washington, D.C., and returned to his home state of Arkansas with wife Anna, 27, and their four small children. (Youngest daughter Meredith Grace arrived July 19.) Although the rest of the Duggars have repeatedly expressed their forgiveness, they have also kept their distance. "The situation with Josh pretty much sums up the whole predicament the Duggars are in," says the family insider. "Jim Bob and Michelle love their son, and they love it when they can spend time with his family. But every time they're photographed with him, a story gets made out of it that rehashes the whole mess, and it's painful for everyone. Maintaining some distance is as much for his own good as it is for theirs."

Jill & Derick Dillard

IN THE AFTERMATH OF THE SCANDAL, no one has taken a bigger leap than Jill, 24, who moved to El Salvador in early July for a long-term mission trip with husband Derick, 26, and their 4-month-old son Israel. Jill "knew exactly what she was doing when she left the country," says the source who has worked with the family. "Yes, it was 'God's calling,' but it was God's calling at exactly the moment it made the most sense for her and Derick and the baby to get away from the spotlight." Jill, who, along with Jessa, defended Josh in a FOX News interview and said she'd long since forgiven him, has been sharing photos of the family's journey—and her growing newborn. "He has the biggest blue eyes, and he's really tall," says cousin Amy Duggar. "He looks like a toddler—it's crazy!" As for critics who have accused the Dillards of taking unnecessary risks by bringing their baby into an impoverished region of Central America, "working with the pastor there and the people in the church, it felt very safe," says Michaela Bates, who undertook a similar mission. Adds the source: "They're not in some remote jungle outpost fearing for their lives." The move suits Jill, says Amy: "I've always called Jill my little hippie chick. I think this is what she's always wanted to do. She found someone who wanted exactly what she wanted out of life."

'Jessa isn't going to lose sight of all the ways she is blessed'

—FAMILY INSIDER

READY FOR BABY

"She is pretty aligned with Jim Bob in her dismay that [Josh's records] were ever allowed to be made public," the insider says of Jessa, who has been chronicling her pregnancy online.

Jessa & Ben Seewald

WITH HER FIRST BABY DUE on Nov. 1—also her first anniversary with Ben—the expectant mom, 22, is keenly aware of how different her experience has been from that of big sister Jill. "She was in such a joyous moment in her life," says the insider. "Happily married, baby on the way . . . and while those things haven't changed, it is now bittersweet, because it's not lost on her that Jill giving birth to Israel got an entire TLC special devoted to it. Jessa would have liked to have had the same sort of platform to give thanks, show what a miracle she feels her child is and express her gratitude. Instead the show isn't there to chronicle this happy time, and even though she's posting on social media, the scandal still gets brought up by commenters. So much has changed for Jessa compared to what Jill experienced, and it can't be changed back. And that's sad for her." What's more, the outspoken Duggar "has to restrain herself" from posting "lengthy defenses of Josh," says the insider: "She understands that if she goes on the offense, it will just keep the story going."

Michelle & Jim Bob Duggar

THE FAMILY PATRIARCH, 50, remains upset over the public revelations about Josh—and what it has cost them all. "Jim Bob is the one who feels most keenly that there is an injustice here," says the family insider. Yet it is the officials who released the police records about Josh and his victims who are the focus of the family's ire. "None of the Duggars think Josh is to blame," says the family insider. "They had forgiven and moved on, and to them now the tragedy is the fact that a part of their past was allowed to be exposed like this. And even once exposed, they truly felt people would understand eventually and be okay with it." Instead Jim Bob and wife Michelle, 48, were also stung by criticism that they did not take the allegations seriously enough. ("We did the best we could under the circumstances," Jim Bob told Megyn Kelly.) Says his niece Amy: "My aunt and uncle tried to do everything they possibly could."

Josiah Duggar & Marjorie Jackson

WHEN THE TEENAGERS announced on Aug. 5 that they had ended their four-month “courtship”—a Duggar-approved dating style involving chaperones and “side hugs”—fans wondered if the scandal was to blame. “As with everything else, the scandal casts a shadow,” the insider says of the split between Josiah, 18, and Marjorie, 17. “But courting doesn’t mean a couple is engaged or even engaged to be engaged. It means two people are getting to know each other, and what Josiah and Marjorie learned was enough for them to conclude they aren’t suited for marriage.” Their families said that “both are thankful for the time getting to know each other.”

‘Rebel Duggar’ Amy Speaks Out

THE NEXT BIG DUGGAR FAMILY MILESTONE IS SEPT. 6, when first cousin Amy Duggar—her mom, Deanna, is Jim Bob’s sister—weds fiancé Dillon King in Arkansas. “It is not your traditional wedding by any means,” Amy told People. And she’s not your traditional Duggar: In a sexy engagement shoot, the pair shattered her uncle’s premarriage-PDA ban. “It was a little less Duggar-esque,” concedes Amy, 28. Of Josh’s scandal, she says she only learned about it when the public did and was not a victim. “I knew he went away for a little bit, but I never knew why. I was not a part of it at all,” she says, adding, “Everyone has skeletons in the closet.” But being the “Rebel Duggar” has its limits for Amy, who has had to contend with false rumors that she is pregnant. “Everyone is like, ‘I knew it! Rebel Duggar!’ But no! I’m like, ‘I’m not that much of a rebel!’”

THE DUGGARS: WHAT’S NEXT

Since the July cancellation of their series, the Duggars have been off the air—but Jill and Jessa will return Aug. 30 to appear in a special that aims to raise awareness of child sexual abuse. (The special, which tells the stories of a variety of survivors, will run on TLC in partnership with abuse-prevention organizations RAINN and Darkness to Light.) The sisters “want to use their situation to help others,” TLC stated.

AFTER THE SUDDEN DEATH OF HER BELOVED HUSBAND OF
29 YEARS, THE TODAY
HOST FINDS SOLACE IN HER FRIENDS AND FAITH

BY JANINE RAYFORD
RUBENSTEIN

As they'd done countless times before, Kathie Lee Gifford and husband Frank sat down with close pals Regis and Joy Philbin on Aug. 1 for dinner, drinks and a whole lot of catching up. While Philbin's longtime former Live! with Regis and Kathie Lee cohost kept everyone in stitches, sharing one of her signature candid stories after the other, "there Frank was, just as handsome as ever," Philbin tells People of the football Hall of Famer and sports broadcaster. That evening, in the backyard of his and Kathie Lee's Greenwich, Conn., home, "Frank was smiling and laughing," says Philbin. "He looked so good, so strong."

Now, just a few weeks later, Kathie Lee is the one trying to remain strong. On Aug. 9, while enjoying a cup of coffee before heading out to Sunday morning church services, 84-year-old Frank Gifford collapsed at home and died, leaving his wife of

AMERICA'S SWEETHEARTS Kathie Lee and Frank (in 1992) "had a wonderful life," says Regis Philbin.

29 years and his family reeling. “Frank was a beautiful man with a beautiful, generous heart,” Kathie Lee tells People. “He lived fully and loved deeply, and he leaves an amazing legacy of lives touched and changed.” Both Kathie Lee, 62, and their son Cody, 25, were home at the time, with daughter Cassidy, 22, flying in as soon as she heard. “This was a total shock, out of nowhere,” a source tells People. “Frank wasn’t sick or anything.” The sad reality hasn’t fully set in. As Kathie Lee told friend and cohost Hoda Kotb during her tearful return to Today on Aug. 17, “I keep expecting him to go, ‘What time is church?’”

The stalwart sportscaster and the bubbly morning-show queen were by each other’s sides for more than three decades. Frank first met Kathie Lee on the set of Good Morning America back in 1982. “She was so alive and adorable,” Frank recalled during an interview in 2006. “Right away, she was so much fun.” Already a legend thanks to his New York Giants career, Frank was twice divorced with three children and 23 years her senior, but that didn’t faze Kathie Lee, who had recently ended her own first marriage. “Somebody asked me if the age difference between us bothered me, and I said, ‘Absolutely! I just hope that I can keep up with him,’” she once joked

2. The then-engaged couple in 1986.

3. Cody (as a toddler in 1991) tells People: “The great Wellington Mara once called Dad ‘the son any father would love to have and the father any son would be proud to have.’ He was right. God blessed me beyond words.”

4. Cassidy (with the family in 2012) adds: “My gratitude far outweighs my sadness, for I will always be able to call that legend not only my dad, but the kindest, most generous human being I have ever had the privilege of knowing.”

on Entertainment Tonight. They wed in 1986. “Kathie would join us on the road in those early days,” says Frank’s former Monday Night Football colleague Al Michaels. “Frank was the coolest guy in the room, and we all had a blast together.”

America heard all about their happy family on weekday mornings, thanks to Kathie Lee’s famous no-holds-barred chats with Philbin on Live! But in 1997 scandal nearly tore their world apart. After a tabloid reportedly paid a woman to seduce Frank into infidelity, their marriage was severely strained. “If I had run when Frank had his temporary insanity ... then our children wouldn’t have their father,” Kathie Lee later said. Says Philbin: “I believe Kathie was always the glue. She’s a very strong woman.”

Kathie Lee said on Today on Aug. 17 that Frank “died in complete peace. ... He knew every sin he had committed was forgiven.” With the help of friends, she’s now focusing on all the good times. “He was an amazing husband to my best friend,” Kris Jenner tells People of Frank, who was godfather to her daughters Kendall and Kylie. “He always had a smile on his face and a warm hug for those he loved.” Kathie Lee is also buoyed by her strong Christian faith. “We will miss him for the rest of our lives,” she tells People. “But we gain strength, joy, comfort and hope that we will see him again in the Kingdom of Heaven.”

Benny Green, 71

An alleged love triangle—complete with sex tapes!—puts Talladega Mayor Larry Barton, 75, in the hospital and his former pal Benny Green, 71, under arrest

THE MAYOR

Larry Barton, 75

SENIORS GONE WILD

With 15 gospel recordings, two weekly cable shows and a prison record for stealing $5,900 from the city whose voters have elected him four times—once after he got out of jail—Talladega, Ala., Mayor Larry Barton already cut a colorful figure. Then on Aug. 8, say police, Barton, 75, arrived outside the barbershop where he cuts hair and was confronted by a man in a wig and trench coat who hit Barton with a baseball bat, then tried to flee by bicycle. Charged with first-degree assault was Benny Green, 71, Barton's friend and former TV cohost. Significantly, says Springer, Barton is the man seen having sex with Green's wife, Charlotte, 68, in three videos secretly recorded in the back of the Greens' liquor store, where Barton keeps an unofficial office. The tapes were cited in the couple's pending divorce case. "If Benny did do this—and I'm not saying he did," says Springer, "they made him do it by what they did to him."

Neither Charlotte Green nor her attorney Steven Adcock returned repeated calls. But Barton, married for 59 years to wife Mary, 77, defends his "good friend" Charlotte and himself. "Mrs. Green's character is impeccable. I don't know what they're talking about," he says. "I do know it's illegal to videotape someone without their permission." Benny Green, free on $150,000 bond and facing two to 20 years, has not entered a plea. But with the report of alleged sex tapes recorded in 2013 going public just prior to Barton's Aug. 25 bid for a fifth term, "it's possibly politically motivated," says the mayor. "They do this every time I run."

If you own a Lennox, Aire-Flo, Armstrong Air, AirEase, Concord, or Ducane brand residential air conditioning or heat pump system, you could get benefits from a class action settlement.

A Settlement has been reached with Lennox Industries Inc. ("Lennox") in a class action lawsuit about whether it manufactured and sold defective evaporator coils. An evaporator coil is a part of an air conditioning system or heat pump system in the cooling mode. Lennox denies all of the claims in the lawsuit, but has agreed to the Settlement to avoid the cost and risk of further litigation.

Who's included? U.S. residents who, between October 29, 2007 and July 9, 2015, purchased at least one new uncoated copper tube Lennox, Aire-Flo, Armstrong Air, AirEase, Concord, or Ducane brand evaporator coil, covered by an Original Warranty ("Original Coil"), whether purchased separately, as part of an air handler, or as part of a packaged unit, for their personal, their family, or their household purposes, that was installed in a house, condominium unit, apartment unit, or other residential dwelling located in the United States.

What does the Settlement provide? An Expanded Warranty and Reimbursement Program (the "Program") that includes: (1) a $75 service rebate; (2) an aluminum tube or coated copper tube Replacement Coil after the first coil replacement; (3) up to $550 as retroactive reimbursement for labor and refrigerant charges for the replacement of the Original Coil in the event there is more than one coil replacement; and (4) up to $550 as reimbursement for labor and refrigerant charges for each uncoated copper tube coil replacement after the first replacement. Program benefits require replacement of an Original Coil due to a coil leak within five years after installation and will vary by individual Settlement Class Members.

How do I get Settlement benefits? You must submit a Claim Form by the later of February 1, 2016 or 60 days after your Original Coil is replaced by installation of a Replacement Coil to obtain coverage under the Program and to request benefits for which you may be eligible as of the date you submit your Claim Form. If approved, you will be sent a Certificate explaining the benefits under the Program and when and how to redeem them. To redeem benefits for which you may first become eligible after submission of your Claim Form, you must submit Request for Benefits Forms with information and supporting documentation that were not already included with the Claim Form. Claim Forms and Request for Benefits Forms may be accessed and submitted online or downloaded for submission via U.S. Mail at www.evaporatorcoillawsuit.com. The Forms are also available by calling 1-888-841-1363 or by writing to Thomas v. Lennox Industries Inc., Settlement Administrator, P.O. Box 43374, Providence, RI 02940-3374.

Who represents me? The Court has appointed Kohn Swift & Graf, P.C., Quantum Legal LLC, and Seeger Weiss LLP as Class Counsel. You do not have to pay Class Counsel or anyone else to participate. If you want to be represented by your own lawyer, you may hire one at your own expense.

Your other options. If you are in the Settlement Class and you do nothing, your rights will be affected and you won't get any Settlement benefits. If you don't want to be legally bound by the Settlement, you must exclude yourself from the Settlement by October 28, 2015. Unless you exclude yourself, you won't be able to sue or continue to sue Lennox for any claim made in this lawsuit or released by the Settlement. If you stay in the Settlement, you may object to the Settlement or give notice of intent for you or your own lawyer to appear at the final approval hearing—at your own expense—but you don't have to. Objections and notices of intent to appear are due by October 28, 2015.

The Final Approval Hearing. The Court will hold a hearing on December 2, 2015 to consider whether to approve the Settlement, and a request of up to $1,250,000 for attorneys' fees, costs and expenses, which includes $2,500 service awards to each Class Representative (Robert Thomas, Scott Patrick Harris, Michael Bell, Sandra Palumbo, Frank Karbarz, and Thomas Davis). If approved, these amounts, and the costs of administering the Settlement, will be paid by Lennox and will not reduce the amount of Settlement benefits available.

Want More Information? Call 1-888-841-1363, go to www.evaporatorcoillawsuit.com, write to Thomas v. Lennox Industries Inc., Settlement Administrator, P.O. # SALMA HAYEK

Never content just being a bombshell, she made her own success—then found unexpected bliss by marrying a fashion mogul and becoming a mom at last

By MIA McNIECE

Whoever said you can't have it all obviously had yet to meet Salma Hayek. The screen star is now a successful producer as well, and at 48, she still inspires gasps on the red carpet. She has a beautiful 7-year-old daughter with her husband—who, oh yes, is a billionaire. And not just any billionaire, but François-Henri Pinault, the CEO of the French luxury conglomerate Kering (Forbes estimates the Pinault family is worth $14 billion), which owns clothing lines such as Alexander McQueen, Balenciaga and Gucci. Meaning Hayek has access to the world's most enviable closet. "He's a very good stylist," Hayek says with a smile of Pinault, 53, whom she wed in 2009 at La Fenice opera house in Venice. "I have girlfriends and they get dressed up and their husbands don't notice or they'll ask, 'Why did you spend so much money on that dress?' My husband is like, 'That dress is amazing,' and immediately knows the collection."

The Mexican-born actress is now a citizen of the world, jetting between homes in London, France and Los Angeles. "We've had so many great adventures," Hayek says. "My life has exceeded my expectations, way beyond what I could have imagined." Her latest passion project has been exploring her family's roots in Lebanon, where her grandfather grew up before immigrating to Mexico, and producing Kahlil Gibran's The Prophet, an animated adaptation of the Lebanese author's celebrated book of poetic essays. "When I read it, I felt it was my grandfather teaching me about life," she says. The movie, she adds, "is not just a film—it's a contribution to my daughter and other kids."

Hayek says her best advice for daughter Valentina is "to not try to be like anyone else." That was Hayek's approach after she first arrived in Hollywood from Mexico in 1991 with two suitcases and a very limited amount of English. Though a soap star in her native country, Hayek struggled to find work in the U.S. until she landed a sexy role opposite Antonio Banderas in Desperado. But she wasn't satisfied being typecast as a bombshell and took matters into her own hands, producing and starring in 2002's Frida, about Mexican painter Frida Kahlo, a bold move that earned her an Oscar nomination. More recently, she produced the hit TV series Ugly Betty.

Still, Hayek worried she would never find lasting love—or become a mom. "I wish I could have told my younger self, 'Don't even bother dating that guy,'" she says of previous boyfriends. "He is a waste of time. You are going to end up with the best guy in the world." Set up with Pinault by a Gucci executive in 2006, "I knew right away he was special," she says. "He's very powerful but disarmingly kind." Hayek welcomed their daughter Valentina in 2007 just after her 41st birthday. "I had my child late in life, and I thought I wasn't going to be able to," she says.

"It was such an important thing to me."

After moving from Mexico to the U.S., she landed a role on the Sinbad Show.

fat, and I think it's very good to keep yourself young." And don't expect to find her on a treadmill. "I don't do cardio. I mean, I didn't do it when I was young. I'm not going to start jumping now. But I do like yoga."

Her idea of a perfect day? "A couch-potato day in bed watching television!" Or a trip to her ranch and animal sanctuary with Valentina and her stepkids (Pinault has three children from his marriage to Dorothee Lepère and a prior relationship with Linda Evangelista). "Salma is someone who cheers you up," says Quvenzhane Wallis, who voiced a character in The Prophet. "There's no being mad and angry around her. You could be sad and then you're laughing up a storm."

Hayek credits her positive outlook to her upbringing. "My father taught me to treat everyone the same and to stay close to your family," Hayek says. "My mom taught me only stupid people get bored." She's grateful for those lessons—and for everything that life has brought her: "I count my blessings every day." ●

Watch Hayek talk about her humanitarian work with Chime for Change in People.com's Why I Care video series, hosted by iJustine's Justine Ezarik: people.com/WhyICare.

Today Hayek works hard balancing her life as a mom, her career and her humanitarian work with UNICEF and Chime for Change, which she co-founded with Beyoncé to support women and girls around the world. She only picks film projects that fit around Valentina's school schedule, including Some Kind of Beautiful, her new romantic comedy with Pierce Brosnan. For The Prophet's global premiere in April, Hayek traveled to Lebanon, where she was able to "see the home my grandfather grew up in and see family I had never met before." And Valentina "was able to understand the importance of this project, and she is very proud that I did it."

When it comes to keeping up appearances, Hayek also sidesteps the conventional route. She shuns Botox for bone broth, a concoction she drinks regularly. "It's sort of disgusting. You take a bunch of bones from a cow and slow-cook them for many hours. It's full of gelatin and

Waking up super early to coanchor NBC's Today show isn't easy, but there is an upside! "On an average day I can be home by lunchtime, and then it's Vale and me all afternoon," says Savannah Guthrie, 43, who welcomed her first child with husband Michael Feldman last summer. These days the animal-themed nursery has become the hub for major mommy-daughter bonding in their New York City apartment. "My favorite moments are after she's had her bottle and she puts her little head on my shoulder," says Guthrie. "I feel like the most blessed person in the universe."

MONTGOMERY

with (from left) Violet, 2, Jackson, 7, Gus, 8 months, and stepkids Braydon, 9, and Haley, 12

The Unforgettable star, 43, says she often takes style advice from her fam. "Children speak the truth," she explains. "Jackson's the most brutal!"

Styled by Braydon

The actress was right at home in this lounge-y basketball-jersey-as-dress look. "I felt cozy, like I could just climb into bed," says Montgomery, who admits she sometimes wears pajamas all day. "I'm like Hugh Hefner!"

Styled by Haley

"I liked that it was sweet but also tough," says Montgomery of the outfit, which paired a pretty printed dress with a leather motorcycle jacket. Haley described the vibe as "badass."

Styled by Jackson

Her son ventured into his stepdad's closet to put this "androgynous" look together. "They're my husband Shawn's Christmas pants!"

Styled by Violet

Being dressed by her toddler felt "like a fantasy," says Montgomery. "It was like being 3 again." The outfit was typical of Violet, who "will wear anything froofy and tutu-y."

ANGIE HARMON

with Finley, 11, Avery, 10, and Emery, 6

While her kids usually approve of her style, the actress, 43, admits that isn't always the case. "I was wearing a midriff-baring top, and they were like, 'Your stomach is showing!' They like me to be demure."

Styled by Avery

While Harmon considers herself "pretty knowledgeable about style," she may have some competition for most fashionable member of the family. "I never would have put that shirt with those pants—to see that kind of creativity made me super-happy," she says. "Avery has a really great eye for color."

Styled by Finley
"Fin's outfit is kind of my uniform," says the Rizzoli & Isles star, who thinks the look also channels her oldest daughter's personality. "It's relaxed and chill," she says. "Finley's the peacekeeper, and everything kind of rolls off her back. I love that that's expressed in her outfit."

Styled by Emery

Harmon's high-energy youngest daughter is like "a little fairy," she says, so it's no wonder Emery gravitated toward a night-out outfit with lots of shiny accessories. "She put me in great jewelry—diamonds and crystals and lots of sparkle, which is her personality."

The matching outfits are no coincidence. Sweeney's son loves dressing like a grown-up: "It's really cute because Ben dresses like my husband, Dave [Sanov], a lot," says the TV host. The designer, 41, wants her kids to be trendsetters rather than followers. "The 'cool kids' are the ones that don't fit in with what everyone else is doing; they're the ones that usually go on to be successful."

Styled by Ava

"She really wants a motorcycle jacket for herself," says Roy, explaining why her older daughter chose this biker-chic look. (The concert tee was a favor from North West's 1st-birthday party!)

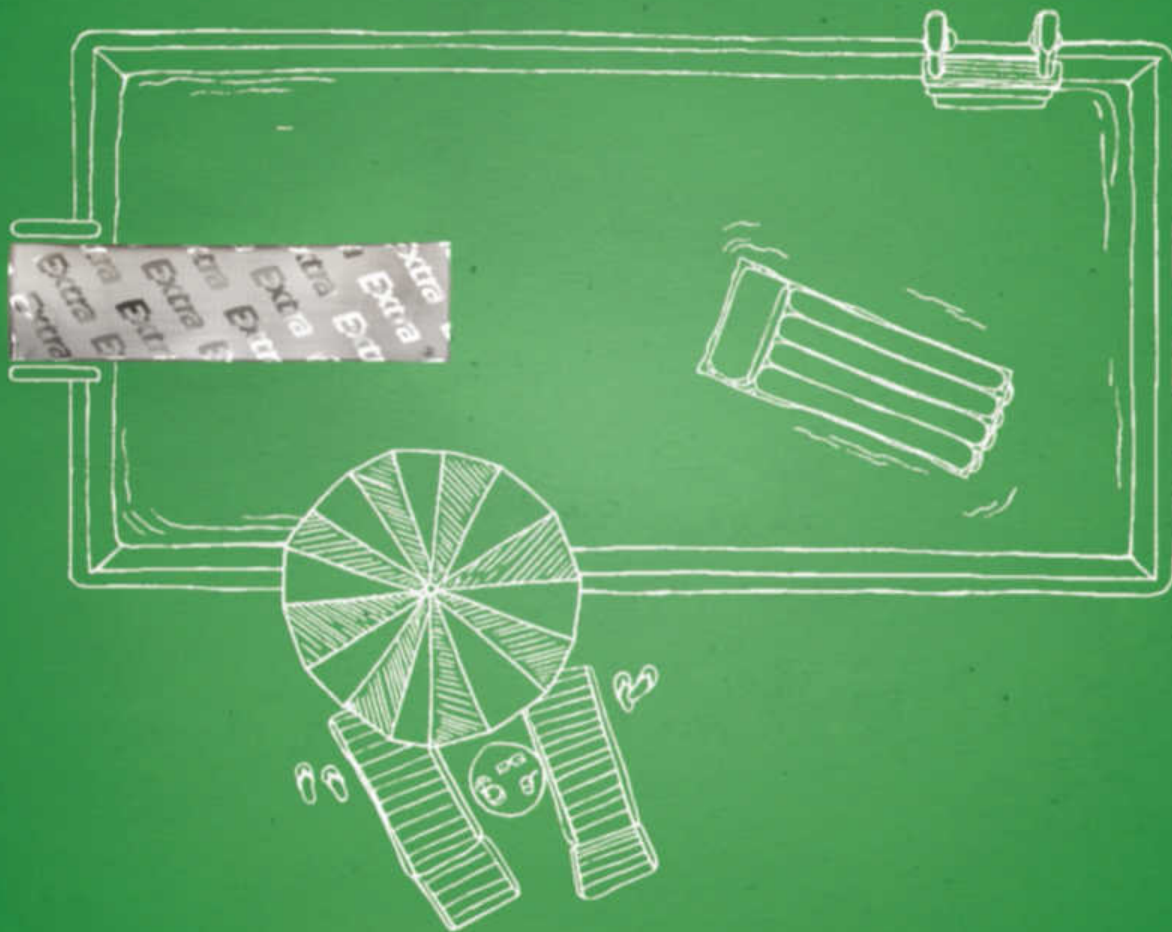

Having Ava pick out her mom's clothes was a complete role reversal. "I'm very much her stylist," says Roy. "She likes for me to put her outfits together."

Styled by Tallulah

Roy's younger daughter is following in her mom's fashionable footsteps. "She enjoys the process of getting ready and dressing up and has a lot of fun with it," says the designer. "Tallulah would love to work in the fashion industry."

The actress, 39, loved the "classic, beautiful" outfits her daughters chose.

Styled by Jagger

Jagger had a specific theme in mind for her outfit. "I was designing for her to go back to prom," says the second grader who, Frye says, has "a flair for drama." Frye also thinks her daughter's style has a lot in common with her famous former TV character. "Jagger reminds me of Punky Brewster. She's so her own little person."

Styled by Poet

"I would totally wear this," says Frye of the casual look picked out by her oldest daughter, an aspiring designer. No wonder shopping is a favorite mother-daughter activity. "We love going to Target and running around the aisles, and we love going to thrift stores. We mix it up."

LOGAN
GULEFF, 13

Season 2, winner

"Lunch is my favorite meal of the day. This fast and fresh meal is fun and easy!"

edamame hummus

- 1 lb. frozen edamame, shelled and unsalted
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 3 tbsp. tahini
- 2 small garlic cloves, peeled
- 3 tsp. olive oil
- 6 tbsp. water
- ½ tsp. kosher salt
- ¼ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
- 3 sprigs fresh parsley or cilantro

1. Cook the edamame in boiling water until just tender, about 10 minutes. Strain.
2. In a blender or food processor, blend edamame with remaining ingredients until smooth. (Hummus can be refrigerated and stored in an airtight container for up to 3 days.)

Serve with:

pretzel chips and snap peas for dipping, plus homemade trail mix using your favorite unsalted nuts (like cashews, pine nuts), dried fruit (like cherries, mango pieces) and sunflower seeds

Prep time: 5 minutes

Cook time: 5 minutes

Serves: 4 to 6

TIP

"Skip premade trail mix," says Logan. "Go to the bulk section of the market and get small bags of what you like. It's more fun!"

LABOR DAY COOKOUT MENU

Throw a “laborless” holiday feast with these easy, end-of-summer dishes!

Expert Tip!

To pack more marinade flavor into the steak, ask your butcher to tenderize the meat—or use a knife to make a few ¼-in.-deep slices to break up the muscle.

DAVE MATTHEWS

Flank Steak with Olive Tapenade

THE MUSICIAN—AND COFOUNDER OF THE DREAMING TREE WINES—SAYS THIS SMOKY, GRILLED ENTREE PAIRS PERFECTLY WITH HIS PINOT NOIR

- 6 cloves garlic, minced
- ⅓ cup soy sauce
- ⅓ cup plus ½ cup extra-virgin olive oil, divided
- ⅓ cup Worcestershire sauce
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 1 (2- to 2½-lb.) flank steak
- ¾ cup pitted and chopped kalamata olives
- 1½ cups loosely packed chopped fresh herb mix (basil, oregano, parsley, cilantro)
- 3 scallions, sliced
- ¼ cup diced white onion
- 2 tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice
- Kosher salt

1. To make the marinade, whisk together garlic, soy sauce, ⅓ cup olive oil, Worcestershire and 1 tsp. pepper in a large bowl or container. Add steak, cover, then refrigerate for 1 to 4 hours, turning meat once.
  2. While the meat marinates, make the tapenade. Mix olives, herbs, scallions, onions, vinegar, lemon juice, ½ cup olive oil and salt and pepper to taste. Chill for 20 minutes.
  3. Preheat a grill or grill pan over medium-high heat. Remove steak from the marinade and wipe off excess with a paper towel. Cook the steak, with grill lid closed, for 4 to 6 minutes per side until meat is nicely charred and cooked to medium rare.
  4. Remove from heat and let meat rest for 5 to 10 minutes. Slice the steak across the grain, diagonally, in 1½-in. slices. Serve with tapenade.
- Serves: 6 to 8
Prep time: 25 minutes, plus marinating time
Cook time: 10 minutes

Expert Tip!

To get the most juice out of a lemon, microwave it on high for 15 to 20 seconds, and then roll it against the counter before squeezing.

¼ cup pine nuts
¼ cup lemon juice
3 tbsp. olive oil
½ cup mayonnaise
Salt and pepper, to taste
1 tbsp. prepared pesto
Fresh basil leaves

1. Boil potatoes in lightly salted water until fork tender. Drain, cut in half, then place in a large bowl.
2. In a skillet over low heat, toast pine nuts until just lightly golden, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat.
3. Mix together lemon juice, olive oil, mayonnaise, salt, pepper and pesto in a small bowl until creamy and smooth. Adjust seasonings to taste.
4. Pour half the dressing over the potatoes, and toss to combine. Add more dressing to taste, and toss. Cover and refrigerate the potatoes for 2 to 3 hours. To serve, sprinkle with toasted nuts and lots of small basil leaves.

|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 24 large shrimp, peeled and deveined | 4 tbsp. lime juice                   |
| ½ cup tequila                        | ¼ cup chopped fresh cilantro         |
| 2 cloves garlic, minced              | Salt and freshly ground black pepper |
| 2 jalapeños, seeded and chopped      | 2 tbsp. peanut oil                   |

1. Toss the shrimp with tequila, garlic, jalapeños, lime juice, cilantro, salt and pepper in a large bowl. Cover and refrigerate for at least 30 minutes.
  2. Heat the oil in a pan over medium-high heat. Strain the shrimp and reserve the marinade. Add the shrimp to the hot pan and cook just until they begin turning pink, about 1 minute. Remove the shrimp and set aside. Pour the marinade into the pan and simmer 4 to 5 minutes, or until the liquid reduces by half. Return the shrimp to the pan and simmer until they're cooked through, about 3 minutes. Serve hot.

WITH COOKIES
LIKE THIS,
THERE WILL BE SPOONING.

Our new Cookie Cores have a uniquely spoonable cookie center surrounded by chunk-filled ice cream. It's a whole new way to love cookies. So start spooning.

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 tbsp. sugar
- 1¼ tsp. baking powder
- ¾ tsp. plus ½ tsp. kosher salt, divided
- 2½ cups heavy cream, divided
- 2 tbsp. crème fraîche
- 2 tbsp. whole milk
- ¼ cup powdered sugar
- ⅓ cup honey
- 12 large strawberries, halved
- 2 tbsp. olive oil
- Freshly ground black pepper
- Balsamic vinegar

1. To make the biscuits, preheat oven to 400°. Whisk together flour, sugar, baking powder and ¾ tsp. salt in a large bowl. In a separate bowl whisk ½ cup heavy cream, crème fraîche and milk until combined. Slowly add wet ingredients into dry, folding mixture until combined.
2. Divide dough into 4 equal parts and smooth into round mounds. Place 3 in. apart on a lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake for 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Transfer to a wire rack to cool completely.
3. To make the whipped cream, beat remaining cream and powdered sugar with a mixer on high until stiff, about 5 minutes. Gently fold in honey. Set aside.
4. To prepare the strawberries, preheat grill to high. Toss berries with olive oil and ½ tsp. salt. Place cut side down on grill, until berries are caramelized and have grill marks, about 2 minutes. Remove from heat and season with black pepper.
5. To serve, cut biscuits in half. On the base, layer berries, whipped cream and a drizzle of balsamic; add the biscuit top.

Gina Rodriguez

HERE'S THE SCOOP ON HOW THE JANE THE VIRGIN STAR PREPPED TO COHOST THE TEEN CHOICE AWARDS AUG. 16

THE COMPLETED LOOK

To give her waves "a little sparkle," hairstylist Paul Norton finished with a spritz of Joico's Gold Dust spray. "Because she was going to be onstage, I wanted her to shine." Ferreri was so impressed with the product's nonsticky sheen, she sprayed it on the star's arms and legs too.

THE GLAM SQUAD "She's so trusting; she just lets us create. It's a wonderful experience," says makeup artist Carissa Ferreri. "We put on our favorite Pandora Janet Jackson mix and sing. It's so much fun." When they finished, the actress high-fived the team!

THE BEAUTY SPREAD

Rodriguez has a dazzling smile, so it's no surprise Crest tapped her to promote its new brightening toothpaste. But highlighting those pearly whites with the perfect lip color wasn't easy. "She kept practicing a rap [for the show]," says Ferreri. "I was like, 'Gina, stop!'"

Crest 3D White Brilliance Toothpaste system, $14.99; at drugstores

THE DRESS

The star and her stylist Lauren Rodriguez picked this embellished Alberta Ferretti dress (out of 55 others!) to kick off the show. "I kept saying, 'We're putting on your armor.' It's heavy, but it's stunning."

Last time I danced

I would say probably opening night of The Elephant Man in London, at the afterparty. But I dance around my apartment all the time.

Last big laugh

In my dressing room talking to my hairdresser about men wearing really short shorts. We laughed hysterically. I think that's a fashion don't.

Last time I cursed

Just five minutes ago! I dropped my whole jar of coconut oil on the floor. I just screamed.

Last splurge

You mean like reckless abandon? I bought some gorgeous Prada shoes to wear to the Tony Awards. They're these huge platform black heels that are just killer. And you can walk a mile in them.

Last time I fell

Onstage making my exit. This was not part of the play. I wear this really long dress and tripped, but one of my handsome costars caught me. Thank God!
